

DAY 60 REVIEW

60-day window: 1 April to 30 May 2026 | Owner: Hadi Yazdani | Date: 1 June 2026

Headline assessment

The numbers missed. The mechanism landed.

Revenue, follower, and ranking targets all under-hit. But the 60-day window produced something more valuable than the revenue would have: a working agency product with proof-of-concept, a sales framework with a validated performance anchor, and a positioning rebuild already underway for photography. The next 60 days inherit a workable system, not a blank page.

Agency — Goals vs Actuals

Metric	Day 60 Target	Actual	Delta
Clients closed	10	1 paid (Haleh) + 2 verbal (Kish LIVE, Heny pending)	-7 vs target
MRR at Day 60	£5,000	~£717 (Haleh discounted M1)	-86%
Outreach / day	100	~20-30 DMs + 424-queue cold email automation built	Behind, infra in place
@clickaiagency followers	3,000 floor / 10,000 stretch	Status unknown	Likely behind
LinkedIn followers	1,000	Partial; intermittent posts	Behind
YouTube subscribers	1,000	Channel not launched	Did not start
Inbound DMs / day from content	2-5 / day	Sporadic, no consistent inbound	Behind

Photography — Goals vs Actuals

Metric	Day 60 Target	Actual	Delta
Tier 1 keyword rankings	Top 3-5	Mixed: some Page 1 entries; homepage primary dropped 35 to 52	Mixed, deteriorating
london wedding photographer	Page 1 (top 10)	Position 52.2	Way off
Enquiries / month	50 / month pace	Mozhgan booked (repeat); broader inbound low	Way off
Bookings / month	5 minimum	1 (Mozhgan, repeat)	-4
Photography revenue	£9,000 / month	Mozhgan cash on day, modest	Way off

@hadyyazdani followers	20,000 floor / 25,000 stretch	~13,500, no posts in ~2 weeks	Below floor
New blog posts	9 in 60 days	7 published, none since 7 May	Behind

What Worked

- First paid client closed (Haleh, 11 May). Agency model is now real, not theoretical.
- Kish recovery deal LIVE + 10+ bookings captured in 2-3 days. Most important signal of the entire window. Two of the 10+ are unambiguously recovered (outside business hours); the rest came in during operating hours. Kish runs AI-first routing (no human-attempt-first), so the inclusive recovery definition does not apply to this client — only the outside-hours subset counts as anchor-eligible. Strictly extrapolated, 2 outside-hours recoveries in 2-3 days projects to ~20 per month, comfortably above the 10-per-month anchor on the strict definition alone. The product works in production; the anchor is not yet “hit” by mechanism but is easily hit by extrapolation.
- Heny aesthetic clinic verbally closed (21 May) + meeting Thursday this week. Second segment opened beyond restaurants.
- The strategic framework rebuild itself. Cross-segment pricing rule, performance anchor mechanism, off-ramp logic, complete cold email rebuild (12 templates × 4 segments), Mon-Thu cadence, Click Voice tier extension to all service segments, contract signing protocol, three contract clause revisions, the Arman dev brief for Click Desk, Heny contract template, 5 Lovable landing pages live, and a complete photography brand rebuild framework using Maddie Mae methodology. This framework is the asset that makes the next 60 days different.
- Photography SEO — corrected diagnosis. N8N v2 pipeline fix revealed the real picture: 10 clicks, 2,489 impressions, 533 ranking keywords, 0.40% sitewide CTR. The problem is CTR, not rankings — a fixable problem.
- Mozhgan booking. Repeat client signal that the photography brand strength is still real; the lapse is in marketing, not in the work.

What Did Not Work — and Why

- Pipeline volume vs realistic close rate. The 60-day target of 10 clients was always wrong math: even at 100% close rate, a pipeline of ~15 active conversations was always going to fall short.
- Cold email automation took 6+ weeks to build. Live by week 7, leaving 17 days. Infrastructure pays off in Window 2, not this one.
- Verbal yes to signed contract leak. Four deals stalled after verbal yes (Randeszvous, Maria, Kish initially, Ace). Root cause: time gap between verbal yes and signature. Sign-in-the-room protocol adopted 12 May but only Heny was reached during this window.
- Photography content paused ~2 weeks. Click Desk dev consumed Hadi's bandwidth. Acceptable trade-off given onboarding pressure, but directly explains the SEO position drops on competitive terms.
- “We call them back” objection (restaurants). Four-of-four in-person restaurant meetings raised price as the obstacle. Real diagnosis: value perception. Three reframes captured. Full objection-handling document not yet built.
- Some leads should have been killed earlier. Maria reviewed for 6+ weeks. Ace silent for 12+ days post-verbal-yes before being de facto written off. Earlier kill conditions would have freed bandwidth.
- @hadyyazdani pause cost compounding follower growth. Floor of 20K never approached. Pause was strategic but the cost compounded over weeks.
- Maddie Mae methodology not adopted until Day 58. The photography brand rebuild framework that should have been the foundation arrived as the window was closing. Phase 1 will lock in Window 2.

Strategic Insights From the Window

- The window measured the wrong things. The real Day 60 question should have been: “Do we have a model that produces clients repeatably?” Answer: yes, just barely, and we have working product proof.
- The performance anchor is the sales lever, carefully framed. Kish's 2 confirmed outside-hours recoveries in 2-3 days extrapolate to ~20 per month — comfortably above the 10-per-month anchor on the strict definition. The honest pitch line: "Our first restaurant client is capturing 2+ outside-hours bookings every 2-3 days through the AI — that projects to 20+ per month, well above our 10-booking guarantee." Honest, defensible, still strong.

- The Persian / Iranian community is a defined go-to-market segment. Henry + Kish + Mozghan + Hadi's own roots. A coherent channel, not yet operationalised.
- Trust > Value > Price. Kish stated it explicitly. Confirmed across the window. Implications for sales script, voice, signing protocol, all of it.
- Bandwidth is the binding constraint, not pipeline. Half of the misses are sequencing problems inside one working week, not pipeline misses.
- Photography is recoverable with focus. Brand foundation in flight. CTR is the high-leverage fix. Content cadence has to restart. If those three things land in the next 60 days, photography returns. Otherwise it continues to decay.

Next 60-day Window — 1 June to 30 July 2026

Day 60 target reset — honest version

Agency (Primary)

Metric	Window 2 Target	Why
Total paid clients	10 (Haleh + Kish converts + Heny converts + 7 net-new)	Pipeline math: ~2,760 cold-email sends × 4% reply × 25% to meeting × 25% close = 7 net-new. Conditional on cold email reply rate holding ≥4%
MRR at Day 120	£2,000 to £3,000	Most new clients on Click Voice intro pricing (£190 m1-3). Volume doesn't translate to proportional MRR until month 4 roll-up. If targeting £5K, mix must include Click+ tier closes
Cold email volume	~46 / day campaign sends	Infrastructure already true; needs sustained execution
Performance anchor in pitches	Every restaurant pitch uses Kish case data	Lever is now real, with evidence
@clickaiagency	3,000 followers	Maintain bare-minimum cadence
Cold email reply rate	4%+ across 200+ sends	Kill condition if below

Photography (Secondary, Recovery mode)

Metric	Window 2 Target	Why
Brand foundation Phase 1 LOCKED	By 7 June	Sections 4-11 of foundation completed
Phase 2 website rebuild STARTED	By 14 June	Homepage rewrite + meta description fixes
Site CTR	0.7%+ by end of window	First measurable lever post-foundation
Blog cadence	1 post per 2 weeks minimum	Realistic given Click Desk and Heny onboarding load
Enquiries	5-8 per month	Floor, not full pace
@hadyyazdani	Maintain (no growth target)	Keep alive while rebuild ships

Cross-cutting principles

- Operational discipline: sequence weeks deliberately. Two days agency, one day photography, two days dev / onboarding, two days off. Stop alternating reactively.
- Kill conditions, not optimism: if a lead goes silent 7 days post-verbal-yes, escalate or accept loss. No more 12-day waits.

- Reviews monthly, not quarterly: lock 30 June and 30 July as smaller checkpoints.

Day 60 Verdict — one sentence

“The window did not produce the revenue. It produced the machine. The next 60 days will measure whether the machine works at volume.”
